Through the MTW Compassion Fund, missionaries were a lifeline, offering immediate and ongoing relief to those trapped in this haunting reality.

MTW's Compassion Fund offers immediate financial help when MTW ministry locations are impacted by disaster. During the first months of recovery in Chile, the Compassion Fund provided meals and temporary housing for many affected families. As rebuilding began, MTW missionaries helped people piece their lives back together, using donations from PCA churches and individuals to purchase badly needed construction materials and household items.

More than a year later, MTW missionaries still offer practical support and proclaim the love of Jesus to their hurting community.

This is just one example of the way the Compassion Fund, supported through this annual offering, empowers MTW missionaries to respond to urgent needs in their communities. In the middle of disaster, loss, and suffering, they can give physical aid and share the hope of the gospel.
